Alexis Blackmore represents clients in high-stakes commercial litigation with a focus on white collar investigations. She has experience in all stages of civil and criminal litigation and has successfully prevented indictments in government investigations, negotiated favorable settlements for clients, and prepared several cases for trial.

Prior to joining Hueston Hennigan, Ms. Blackmore was a litigation associate at Williams & Connolly in Washington, D.C., where she defended clients against allegations of financial offenses and white collar crime involving investigations led by the DOJ, SEC, OFAC, and CFTC.

While at law school, Ms. Blackmore served as the chief production editor for the American Criminal Law Review. She also served as a legal extern for the Criminal Division of the DOJ and for the Enforcement Division of the SEC. She was a judicial intern for the Honorable Reggie B. Walton in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia.

*Ms. Blackmore is not yet admitted to practice in California.
